U. S. COMMISSIONER

Liabé to Lose That Smile Before He Gets in the Race for Attorney.

After trying the two men who are supposed to have robbed the post-office at Crofton, U. S. Commissioner Alvan Clark entertained the idea that he could go to Jones' Mill and have a great time with the other campers, just like the other "boys." But he missed his calculations by a long shot. Tuesday morning while the other campers were boating, wading, catching fish, shooting doves, etc., Commissioner Clark was disposing of a dozen negroes, men and women, who had been brought here from Madisonville charged with boot-legging whisky. He did not like the way things showed up and he held the sextette over to the next term of Judge Evans' court.

It will be an all day affair and profitable to everybody.

--: HOPKINSVILLE AS SHE IS. --:

Keeping Step in the March of Progress and a Rosy Path Stretched Out Before Her.

Led All Others in Increase in Population, Ahead in Growth As a Tobacco Market and Building Operations and In Front Rank in Free Education.

The trustees of the city public schools met Monday night and elected Miss Lillian Bush teacher for study hall in the High School building. This completes the full teaching corps for the city schools, three vacancies by resignation having occurred since the election of teachers at the close of the school year.

Miss Bush, after graduating in the city schools, attended McLean College. After graduating from McLean College she taught in the public schools of the county and has been resting up for a year or more. She is a daughter of Judge and Mrs. C. H. Bush and is well fitted for the position to which she has been called and will, no doubt, discharge her duties to the satisfaction of everyone interested.

Superintendent Marion was present and among other matters discussed by the board and suggestions made by the new superintendent was the manual training course. The only trouble in adding this important feature to our school system seems to be in securing a competent instructor. Of course the employment of the teacher involves more expense, but those favoring the movement will nevertheless not be contented until the class is formed and a competent man is put at the head of it. They do not believe in less Latin and German and more physical development, but rather a development of muscle and brain, as necessary to increase mental strength. By all means let us do something to lessen the number of young men seen on our streets with drooping shoulders and curved spines, who couldn't throw a baseball across the diamond on a wager. Hopkinsville has always done well in athletics, but we hope a better day is coming.

The city schools will open in about two weeks, Monday, September 1, and it is predicted that the term of 1913-14 will be one of the most successful in their history. Our school system is as near perfect as any in the state and has done more than all other things in making Hopkinsville what it is today.

We stand right in front as a tobacco market. This has been a banner year in building and with a record eclipsing all other cities in the state, except Middlesborough, as to increase in population, as shown by census figures, the most pessimistic cannot fail to see the many unquestionable evidences of continued growth and commercial prosperity. Greater Hopkinsville should be the watch-word of every progressive citizen, and if there are any growers, yet unconverted it is easy enough to ignore then and turn a deaf ear to their carpings and fault-finders. They have simply outlived their day.

WOMAN SLASHED

Another Dusky Maid Through Jealousy.

Two colored women had a quarrel at a watermelon feast Monday night on the farm of C. R. Bouldin, near Howell, and one of them used a knife very freely. In a fit of jealousy over a negro man Eula Bailey cut Willie Parker in half a dozen or more places, but none of them was dangerous. Sheriff Johnson was telephoned just as he had retired for the night and went to the farm where the trouble occurred and arrested the Bailey woman and brought her to town and turned her over to Jailer Mullins.

Eula Bailey had her examining trial before Judge Knight yesterday and was bound over to the September grand jury. Owing to the woman's condition, Judge Knight released her on her own recognizance.

Pflanz to Contest.

Jailer John R. Pflanz, defeated democratic candidate for renomination in the August primary, Louisville, was granted a writ of mandamus commanding County Clerk Ray to turn over to him for inspection the stub books from which the ballots were cast. Pflanz alleges fraud in the nomination of his opponent, Charles Foster, and his attorneys collecting evidence preparatory to filing contest proceedings were refused access to the stub books in the clerk's office.

THIRD STORE.

Sable Bros. Purchases Stock of the John Moayon Co.

The stock of goods of the John Moayon Co., on Main street, adjoining C. R. Clark & Co., and the use of the building were transferred to Sable Bros. last Monday and the progressive young merchants took possession last Tuesday morning. This is the third store in the city now being operated by Sable Bros. The firm is going to largely increase the stock of shoes, which will be in charge of Edwin H. Brown, who is considered one of the best shoe men in the city, and has had charge of that department for several years. A large stock of ladies and gents furnishing goods will also be carried.

RETAIN ADRIANOPLE.

Turks Decide to Hold City they Have Now Recaptured.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—Turkey's determination to retain possession of Adrianople is reiterated in a note handed to the representatives of the powers tonight by the Sublime Porte.

It is claimed that the atrocities committed by the Bulgars made it necessary for Turkey to invade the conquered territory beyond the frontier established by the London treaty, and that having retaken the territory, Turkey feels justified in holding it.

Loss in Corn Crop.

Washington, Aug. 13.—A loss of 300,000,000 bushels of corn, the nation's greatest farm crop, has resulted from the great damage wrought by drought and other conditions since July 1, was estimated to-day by the government's agricultural experts in their August crop report. A total production of 2,672,000,000 bushels of corn was predicted, 450,000,000 bushels less than last year's crop.

BABY SHOW AT THE FAIR

Better Babies Physically Versus Those With Pretty Faces.

THE STANDARDIZED INFANT

Statistics Say We May Be a Nation of Foreign Blood.

The baby show at the Pennyroyal Fair is a fixed certainty, but it will be the most perfectly formed infant and not the one with the prettiest face that will win the prize. This will disappoint many fond mothers as all of them believe they have the prettiest children in the world. The baby has been "standardized" just like everything else, and the cherub with laughing eyes, dimpled chin, curling hair and peach-blow cheeks is no longer "it." It's the hale and husky little fellow with straight limbs that has most of the twenty points listed in the standardization of this year's baby crop that will be the winner. Facial perfection counts only five points out of a thousand and the prettiest baby in the county has no showing unless it is built according to the standard. Now, mothers, let your babies cry all they want to, to develop their lungs, eat or drink all they can hold to make them strong, and keep them in the bath to promote the general nutrition of the body. Groom them patiently and well and maybe the pretty face will win. This is a day for better men, better babies and more of them. Statistics prove that our foreign population is leading in the number of births and their children are the most perfectly formed. Before many years the pure-blooded American population will be in the minority and the United States will be a nation of foreign blood unless there is "baby farming" on a more liberal scale.

PENSION WARRANTS

Kentucky Confederate Vets Are Receiving Printed Slips, Good Some Day.

The Kentuckians who wore the gray in the war between the States are at last receiving interest bearing warrants in the way of pensions, and they will be cashed when the State treasury has the funds on hand with which to redeem them, which will not be long.

These warrants are now being received here by a few of the veterans and more will follow. Those in need of the money will have to get the banks or persons having the money, to take them at a discount. This "shaving" business is liable to be expensive in cases where the banks do not take them.

LOST FINGER

While Waiting For Shot at Rabbit.

H. T. Underwood, while on a visit to the home of his parents, near town, was the victim of an accident that cost him a finger from his left hand. While waiting on the roadside for a shot at a rabbit, his pistol was discharged, the ball striking and breaking the middle finger of his hand. He came to town and the finger was amputated.

TO IMPEACH GOV. SULZER

Nearly All the Democrats Lined Up Against Him.

HE WILL PUT UP FIGHT

Rumor That His Wife Will Assume Responsibility For His Speculations.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Enough votes to impeach Gov. Sulzer, of New York, were claimed by the Democrats when the lower house of the Assembly met at 10 o'clock last night for an all-night debate on the question. It was said in Albany last night that the stock market transactions trouble was caused by Mrs. Sulzer, who had speculated without the knowledge or consent of her husband, and that she would make a statement. Mrs. Sulzer is said to have told the story several days ago, but it was suppressed by the Governor.

BUSINESS COLLEGE

May Be Opened Here by Prof. Draughton.

That Hopkinsville may have another business college is among the probabilities. Prof. J. F. Draughton, one of the foremost business educators in the South, was here this week on a visit and casting an eye to the windward as to business.

Come along, Professor. Hopkinsville extends a welcome hand to all who want to locate here and see the town grow and become a citizen. Prof. Draughton is a brother-in-law of Col. O. G. Sprouse.

Much Pleased.

Dr. Frederick Muchler met a large number of farmers last Tuesday. The doctor expressed himself as much pleased with the advance Christian county farmers are making in crop improvements. He assured the farmers that this county will eventually receive aid from the government for farm development.

MISTOOK HUMOR FOR CONCEIT

Europe Never Understood Whistler's
Satire and So Accused Great Painter of Vanity.

Quite recently appeared an article, in a French literary magazine, wherein James MacNeil Whistler was compared to Victor Hugo—in so far as he was charged with having been possessed by a conceit, a vanity amounting to megalomania, like that which possessed the famous Frenchman.

And, as proof, the author of the article gave out two Whistler anecdotes. One of them is that when a visitor at Whistler's praised one of the artist's pictures, saying: "Ah, how true it is to nature!" Whistler spoke: "Is it, indeed? Then old Dame Nature must have been improving!" And the other one has Whistler ask when he was told that the two greatest painters of portraits ever known were himself and Velasquez: "Oh, I say, why lug in that Velasquez?"

While Hugo's conceit was serious, was solemnly pompous, the two anecdotes on which the anti-Whistler charge is based in themselves repudiate the charge by clearly being humor, humor of the best American self-satirizing sort—which Europeans seldom understand.

And since it's true that humor and conceit refuse to live together, Whistler stands fully acquitted through the very proof called forth against him, and stands furthermore exalted as a true American.

FOUND PLANT THAT COUGHS

Explanation Is That Common Broad Bean Tries to Rid Itself of Dust That Way.

All have read of carnivorous plants and of plants that weep, but who has heard of a plant that coughs?

There is the authority of a French botanist, however, for the statement that a plant in various tropical regions actually possesses the power to cough in the most approved manner. The fruit of this plant resembles the common broad bean.

It appears that the coughing plant is something of a crank, that it easily works itself into a rage, and that it has a curious horror of all dust.

As soon as a few grains of dust are deposited on its leaves the air chambers that cover their faces and are the respiratory organs of the plants, become filled with gas, swell, and end by driving out the gas with a slight explosion and a sound that resembles so much the cough of a child suffering from a cold as to carry a most uncanny sensation to the one beholding the phenomenon.

PALLBEARER! NO, THANKS.

"A polar bear, you mean."

"Yes, yes, vat is heem?"

"Oh, he is a bear that lives on the ice and eats fish."

"Mon Dieu! And me do that! Nevaire! Nevaire!"

"You do it? What do you mean?"

"Vell, a man in de house vere I levee, he die, and dey say to me vill I pe pole bear for heem. Live in de ice and eat fish! Not even for a dead man! Nevaire Nevaire!"

RIBBONS MARK LINGUISTS.

In Budapest you see walking about the city, waiting at the railway stations and driving in carriages, many Hungarian women wearing ribbons of various colors.

Some have two or three ribbons, others have four, five or six. One woman had nine ribbons. That meant that she spoke or at least understood nine languages, each color representing one language.

Bright red represents English, a heliotrope or lavender is German, a brilliant yellow means French, a pale blue is Italian, a brown means Danish, Dutch is a Nile green, and so on throughout all the colors and most of the nations of the earth.

The great majority of the women who act as guides and interpreters wear at least three colors.

PENSION FOR BURR

His Application Found in Musty Records.

Writing as Legible as If Only Month
Old and Dated 1834, When the Revolutionary Veteran Was 78 Years Old.

Washington.—The application of Aaron Burr of revolutionary fame for a pension has been unearthed among the musty files of the pension bureau. Secretary Lano has dispatched it to the Smithsonian Institution, suggesting that place as the proper depository for such an interesting document. The application is in an excellent state of preservation.

The writing is as legible as if written a month ago, and the paper is still intact. The signature of the applicant is modestly placed in the lower right-hand corner and read "A. Burr." There are four pages of the application, which is dated in 1834, and is closely written on both sides of legal size paper. Therein is set forth that Colonel Burr, the applicant, is seventy-eight years old, and that he enlisted in 1775 at the age of eighteen.

It is further recited that the applicant's first important expedition was with General Arnold on the campaign in Canada. At that time he was aid to General Montgomery, who was killed in the attack on Quebec. Young Burr's next assignment was as aid to General Arnold, who was in command of the invading army at that time. Later he was aid to General Putnam and "was present at the battles of Long Island and White Plains."

The papers also declare that Burr was made lieutenant colonel by General Washington; that his health became impaired and that he made several attempts to resign on that account, and his resignation was accepted conditionally and with protest by General Washington, but before it took effect Colonel Burr was persuaded to undertake the destruction of a British blockhouse on the Bronx river, which he accomplished most successfully, and was then persuaded to forego his intention to resign and continued in active service until 1781.

Among other papers in the file is a copy of a letter to Colonel Burr from George Washington, dated "Headquarters Frederick, 26 October, 1778." The substance of this letter is found in the following quotation:

"You in my opinion carry your ideas of delicacy too far, when you propose to drop your pay while the recovery of your health necessarily requires your absence from the service. It is not customary, and it would be unjust. You therefore have leave to retire until your health is so far re-established as to enable you to do your duty."

KILL 12,910,506 ANIMALS.

There were 12,910,506 animals slaughtered in the federally inspected establishments of Chicago under government inspection in 1912. These consisted of 1,664,613 cattle, 463,750 calves, 4,772,357 sheep, 15,273 goats and 5,994,513 hogs.

The total number of animals inspected in the 790 slaughtering and processing establishments under federal inspection in 226 cities and towns in 1912 was 57,628,491. This is an increase of nearly 5,000,000 over the figures for the fiscal year 1911.

Since 1911 the number of inspected establishments, including meat food factories, has increased from 919 to 940. Of the animals inspected in 1912 cattle numbered 7,245,535, calves, 2,277,954, sheep 14,979,354, goats 72,871 and hogs 33,032,727.

The total condemnations at the time of slaughter for disease or other cause numbered 232,687 whole carcasses and 494,328 parts of other carcasses, or a total of 727,015 condemnations. In addition, nearly 18,000,000 pounds of prepared meats and meat products were condemned on reinspection because they had become unwholesome subsequent to the first inspection.

Chicago, with 12,910,506 animals slaughtered under federal inspection by the department of agriculture, leads in numbers. The other principal points of federally inspected slaughter are in the following order: Kansas City, 5,646,161; South Omaha, 4,609,675; New York, 3,034,685; National stock yards (East St. Louis), 2,966,292; South St. Joseph, 2,671,443; Boston, 1,826,044; Indianapolis, 1,598,503; Sioux City 1,520,607; Buffalo, 1,381,271.

FLIES COST $157,800,000 A YEAR.

Figured out in money, to say nothing of the loss in human life, the cost to the United States annually of supporting its fly population amounts to $157,800,000, say government experts, who have been making study of the results of the germ-spreading activities of those insects.

It is estimated that the fly is responsible for an expenditure of $50,000,000 for the handling of tuberculosis cases, attributable to germs spread by the pests, while $70,000,000 represents the cost of typhoid fever cases originating in the same way.

As a carrier of intestinal fever and summer diseases, and a transporting agency of dysentery, the fly, scientists say, must be charged with an expenditure of $37,200,000 for the cure of those diseases.

Satisfactory results are reported in nearly every city where anti-fly campaigns are in progress. In Washington there has been a noticeable falling off in the size of the pest horde. Methods of fighting the fly which have been followed in the national capital this summer are endorsed in a bulletin just issued from the office of the state entomologist of Minnesota.

The local plan was inaugurated with a clean-up campaign. Since then the method has consisted principally of bringing to the attention of citizens, by means of educational posters, letters and newspaper articles, suggestions for fly eradication that have been tried out with success in various cities.

GENIUS OFTEN A MENACE.

Children of exceptional mental brilliancy are even greater dangers to society than those defective or abnormally stupid. This is the conclusion of Dr. Maximilian P. E. Grossmann of the United States bureau of education in a report made public the other day. The educational expert based his statement on the comprehensive study made in the schools of the United States.

"It is often the exceptionally bright child, or even the genius, whom we find on the wrong side," said Dr. Grossmann. "The stupid and weak-minded criminal is not so dangerous as the clever and intellectual criminal."

As a remedy for the uplift of misguided juveniles the scientist advocated united effort on the part of educators, medical men, social workers, charity organizations, welfare societies, juvenile courts and other agencies. He declares in his report that all of the separate organizations are doing commendable work in this connection, but that joint action is necessary. He also advocates the passage of legislation giving the community the right to direct the educational training of every child.

"WOODROW THE COOL."

These be warm days in Washington, both meteorologically and politically. President Wilson has been in the thick of both kinds of warmth. Yet close observers declare that he has not yet perspired:

Has not been seen to mop his brow;
Has not wilted a collar;
Has not used a fan;
Has not complained of the heat;
Has not once said: "Whew, but it's hot."

Has not started the air cooling plant under the offices.

All this in spite of the fact that he is the hardest worked man in the United States.

Blighting summer heat has fallen on the white house, but he has resolved to stay "on the job" all summer, to carry out the administration's reform policies.

His bedroom and his office are only a hundred feet apart, so that he is obliged to steal the time if he gets away for a bit of exercise, yet, even at that, he has established a white house record.

He has not even taken off his vest. He turns on the electric fan in his office and goes on working and weighing 178 pounds without turning a hair.

And all perspiring Washington is wondering how he does it.

SCHOOL FOR CONGRESSMEN.

During the discussion of the tariff bill Representative J. Hampton Moore, a Pennsylvania Republican, delivered his "pleo" in the shape of what he called a "tariff primer." He had the clerk read questions and he answered them, incidentally roasting the Underwood measure.

While "Hammy," as Mr. Moore is called by his intimates, was getting along swimmingly with his primer lesson, Congressman Lobeck of Nebraska did his best to make the scene as educational as possible. Mr. Lobeck raised his right hand and frantically waved it in circles.

"For what purpose does the gentleman from Nebraska rise?" asked the presiding officer.

"Please, teacher, may I go out?" was the response, while the house shook its sides laughing.

GODDESS GETS BATH.

The "Goddess of Freedom," the dame on top of the capitol, has received her triennial bath.

For the bathing and painting of the goddess and her approaches and foundations, congress appropriated $16,000. Charles MacNichol, who has twice before washed and painted the great metal figure on the capitol, had the job. It required 240,000 gallons of paint to give back to the goddess of freedom her original color. It took the time of many men several weeks to touch the lady up properly.

Easy Way to Kill Moles.

An excellent way to exterminate moles is as follows: Prepare a small can of calcium carbide, which can be purchased from an automobile or bicycle dealer, open the hole where the mole has been digging and place some of the carbide in it.

Pour two or three gallons of water into the hole and close up the opening. In about 15 or 20 minutes open the hole and immediately ignite the gas formed.

Be careful in lighting the gas. A gas lighter or a match placed in the end of a long stick should be used.

The gas will burn for a few seconds and then it will back-fire in the hole. There will be no more trouble from the mole.—Popular Mechanics.

Not to Be Surprised.

"Dibs is what I would call a practical optimist."

"How is that?"

"He hopes for the best, but is prepared for the worst."

Growing in Favor.

The water from the well located on the farm of Luther H. Smithson, near Church Hill, is growing in favor every day. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, constipation and stomach trouble are yielding to the medical qualities of this water by a few days use. Probably half the people who say they have "heart trouble" have nothing but indigestion, sometimes manifestly in an acute form. Try the water from Mr. Smithson's well for a few days and test its virtues for yourself. He delivers it your home at 12½ cents a gallon.

Among the many who are using it with beneficial effects we mention: Flem Clardy, Muncy Moss, Roy Kenner, Gus Breathitt, Jno. C. Hooe, J. W. Lander, Rev. E. W. Barnett, Del. Henderson, John C. Gary. See them. Telephone Coates' drug store or call 633, 5 rings.

Mothers! Have Your Children Worms?

Are they feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy or constipated? Do they continually pick their nose or grind their teeth? Have they cramping pains, irregular and ravenous appetite? These are all signs of worms. Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt its mind and growth. Give "Kickapoo Worm Killer" at once. It kills and removes the worms, improves your child's appetite, regulates stomach, liver and bowels. The symptoms disappear and your child is made happy and healthy, as nature intended. IN STILL WATERS

Bark Freightened With Hopes of Lovers Set on the Right Course.

"Those dreadful suffragettes!" Phyllis dropped the morning paper containing an account of the latest window-smashing crusade, and turned to me, as one sure of sympathy. "Bobby, aren't you glad I'm not one of them?" I answered fervently in the affirmative. The question was one which had worried me just a bit ever since the beginning of our engagement, but that blissful period was so new that we had not had time to put all the affairs of the universe into their proper pigeon-holes.

"They do such awful things!" continued Phyllis, with a deliciously feminine little shudder; "fancy fussing with policemen, and throwing bricks—and all that!"

"Disgusting!" I affirmed with emphasis. "So useless, too! And what do they accomplish except to make themselves unattractive? What man in his senses would want to marry a suffragist?" Phyllis received my reply in such frigid silence that I looked at her in surprise. She stiffened, which is an alarming thing, even in a person of five feet two.

"I had thought," she remarked icily, "that you were intending to marry one; but as there seems to be a misunderstanding, perhaps I had better return this." She held out my ring on the tip of a scornful forefinger.

"Why, Phyl!" I stammered, "you just said yourself—"

"I was speaking of the suffragette, not of the suffragist," she dignified reply. Then, noting my look of bewilderment, "Do you mean to say you're such a back number that you don't know the difference, Bob Wharton?"

"I'm afraid I don't," I confessed lamely. "I know they all want to vote, and I don't just see why. Now, for example, take you and me. When we're married—"

"If," substituted Phyllis, toying with the ring, which she had laid upon the table. "Now that this point has come up, Robert, we had better have a clear understanding."

"Married," I resumed, firmly, trying to keep my temper, "wouldn't my vote represent the interests of the family—yours as well as my own?"

"Not necessarily," Phyllis' tones were crisp and businesslike. "For instance, dad left me an interest in his New Jersey mills; they're in a small borough where every vote counts, and there's a land company with interests inimical to mine, raising heaven and earth to get a controlling interest in the council. See how it works out? Would you establish a residence across the state line and vote there, to look after my interests, thereby sacrificing your vote in your own city and state, where you are needed? I pause for a reply." I could think of none at the moment, and she proceeded:

"Then, suppose, for the sake of argument, that you want the Democratic ticket, while I'm convinced that for the sake of prosperity the Republican view is the only safe one. Where's your argument for identical interests?"

I took refuge in generalities. "Modern woman," I complained, "has become hard, it seems to me. Perhaps it's unavoidable, under modern conditions, but her tenderness, her modesty, her heart side—all these must suffer from the change. Romance is dead. So much comradeship and out-of-door companionship with men, masculine tendencies in dress and all that are against romance. Now, in the old days—" I was warming up to my subject and beginning to enjoy my eloquence.

"In the old days," interrupted Phyllis demurely, "there were Rosalinds, Imogenes, Maid Maries and Violas, and—oh, lots more! If I remember rightly, their costumes at times displayed masculine tendencies, and there was more or less out-of-door comradeship with their lovers. And think of the fair ladies who dressed as pages and followed their husbands or sweethearts to the wars—being herded with rough men and enduring all sorts of hardening experiences! And yet we look back and call it the dear old age of romance!"

"Well, but—that was different," I protested. "And even you can't deny that in many ways—in judging a lover for instance—women were less callous, less calculating, less critical—"

"So?" Phyllis laughed lightly. "Well, we have the bull fight in some countries nowadays, I'll admit; but, outside of that, where can you find a callousness in modern womanhood to match the cold-blooded way the medieval lady watched the knights at the tournament hack each other to pieces, and picked the strongest brute for the winner of her tender hand? Or you can go still further back, and think about the gladiators and early Christian martyrs, and look at the sweet young vestal virgins turning down their thumbs as a death warrant. Come, now, can you beat it?"

I was sure there was an answer to her arguments, but none seemed to occur to me. "Just at the moment," I said with dignity, "I don't recall—"

Phyllis laughed wickedly. "Well," she queried, demurely, "do you want to marry a suffragist? You know the worst. But I do want it understood that if I had the vote I should never allow my political opinions to disrupt the family peace!"

I looked at Phyllis—adorable Phyllis; I pictured the future with her; I pictured it without her, as I absently fingered the ring. Her hands were clasped in her lap, at a safe distance.

"Phyllis," I concluded handsomely, "I will say that if all women were as sane and level-headed as you are I should fear nothing from placing the ballot in their hands." Phyllis placed her hand carelessly upon the table near mine, and listened with polite attention. Then, as her eye caught mine, she smiled, and I captured the hand and slipped the ring on its proper finger. And then—oh, never mind that part. Anyhow, Phyllis softened; and that is even more impressive than her stiffening, in its way. A few moments later she murmured from her snug harbor on my shoulder: "I'm so glad you really are the broad-minded man I hoped you were, Bob! And let me tell you that if I do want to vote, I simply love to keep house—and suffragist or no suffragist, there's no woman in the United States of America who can beat me at lemon meringue pie!"—New York Press.

FAIRY STORY HEROES IN STONE.

The dedication of a "Fairland fountain" in a public park of Berlin was one of the municipality's contributions toward celebrating the quarter-centennial of the emperor's reign, a Berlin correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star writes.

Berlin children are now reveling in a wonderful playground, where they may see the heroes of their story books. The figures are placed in groups around two basins, the larger of which covers nearly half an acre. Red Riding Hood is there and so is the wolf. Here also is Jack-in-Luck and his pig; Puss-in-Boots, Cinderella and her slipper; Sleeping Beauty and all the rest of the old-time favorites. The whole conception is a happy one, the poetry of child life is fittingly embodied in lasting stone amid beautiful surroundings, and it is agreed on all sides that much credit for final success of this beautiful idea is due Emperor William for his rejection of the first designs, which were too elaborate and symbolical.

WANTED TO GO, TOO.

When Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, who is reported to have won the distinction of being the first man to climb Mount McKinley, first went to Alaska he found that two motives were current in that country—one commercial and the other social. The commercial one was: "Nothing for nothing, and durned little for a dollar." And the social one was: "Cheer up, the worst is yet to come." "Even when they rob you," the archdeacon says, "they do it so generally and frankly that it is hard to get angry, unless you happen not to have the price."

"The man who moved my baggage a hundred yards at Skagway and charged me a dollar apiece for six packages answered, when I said it was a robbery, 'Yes, it's robbery; but I want to go to Fairbanks, too.' And I had to join in the laugh."

MODERN YOUNG PERSON.

Father (who has taken daughter to the play)—I'm sorry I brought you now, Mabel. This is hardly a play for the young person.
Daughter—Oh, I don't mind it, dad! It'll probably liven up a bit before the end!—Judge.

WHOLE VILLAGE IN MIGRATION

African Tribe Seeks New Settlement When the Adjacent Soil is Exhausted.

Father Joseph Burger thus describes a tribe of natives at Ihowon, Benin, Africa:

"These people are voluntarily nomadic. Their huts are made of bamboo sticks and baked earth, covered with palm leaves, and really present a pretty appearance at the edge of the forest paths.

"As the mud used for the walls dries in the sun in two or three days a whole village springs into existence within a week. Once settled, the blacks begin to clear little spaces in the jungle and plant their sweet potatoes and maize.

"After three or four years, when the soil is exhausted, the entire village moves off to seek a new location and begin the same programme over again. And as there is plenty of space in that region, no one need quarrel with his neighbor for the choice spots. There are enough and to spare for everybody.

"The trouble with missionary work among these natives is that, if we settle among them we will wake up some fine morning to find our sheep missing—gone to seek fields and pastures new. We can, however, baptize the infants and the dying."

TOO WINDY

The Actor—Ah! me good man, then you do not admire the breezy actor folk?

Innkeeper—Well, no, I can't say that I do. Some of them are so breezy they blow away without paying their bills.

GOOD RECIPE.

Upton Sinclair, addressing at Haledon the silk mill strikers of Paterson, urged fairness of statement.

"But to be fair," he said, "is very difficult. To give ourselves no more than our due, to give our adversaries no less than their due—ah, that's a very difficult thing indeed."

"You know, perhaps, my recipe for a complete, a really complete, biography? Well, I've always held that from the good things we remember about ourselves and the bad things other people remember about us a perfectly complete biography could be compiled.

AND LIKELY TO STAY THERE.

First Undergraduate—Have you telegraphed to the old man for money?

Second Undergraduate—Yes.

"Got an answer?"

"Yes. I telegraphed the old man, 'Where is that money I wrote for?' and his answer reads, 'In my inside pocket.'"

IMAGERY.

"He makes his living by writing, does he? What's his trend—serious, analytic or the comic stuff?"

"Mostly imaginative. I thought you knew. He's the fellow that can take an ordinary cub reporter and make him do all sorts of heroic things, and hold it down to 7,500 words."

SELFISH VIEW.

She—Look at that poor moth fluttering around the light.

He—That's better than having it fluttering around my overcoat.—Puck.

THOSE SWEET GIRLS.

"So you are engaged to Tom."

"Yes."

"My dear, I congratulate you. Tom is the nicest fiance I ever had."

ITS NATURAL REQUIREMENT.

"Cut down that article on the solar system."

"How can I, when it has to have lots of space?"

UNABLE TO CONTROL NATURE

Scientific Theory Concerning Prevention of Hailstorms Proved Something of a Joke.

Hailstorms are particularly disastrous in France because of the great damage done by them to the vineyards, and on this account the French government has been very active in testing all theories advanced, with the hope of avoiding these visitations. In this connection the scheme of pouring electricity into the upper air by the means of terminals located at some distance above the earth received warm advocacy by a number of investigators, and fifty-two of these stations were established in different parts of the country, the last being on the top of the Eiffel tower, where a great volume of electricity was emitted into the upper atmosphere. The fallacy of this view was at once shown, for a few days after the installation was made on the top of the great tower the vicinity was visited by a number of serious hailstorms, a very severe one falling at the very foot of the tower. A critical investigation of the results at all the other stations failed to show that there is any benefit to be derived from these installations.

Too Busy to Run.

Anne was not very well, and found walking with her vigorous mother hard work. Mamma, however, was pressed for time, and presently hurrying ahead, called to the struggling, panting little girl to run. From a little distance behind her came the breathless protest: "I can't run, mother. You'll just have to wait for me. I'm so busy walking that I can't run."

Government Buffalo Herd Is Increased.

The birth of 10 calves in the buffalo herd maintained by the government on the Wichita national forest and game refuge, near Lawton, Oklahoma, has been reported by the game warden in charge. The herd now contains a total of 48 head of full blooded buffalo, or more properly, bison, of which 27 are males and 21 females. All of the animals are in splendid condition.

In 1907 the American bison society donated to the federal government a nucleus herd of 15 animals which had been bred and reared in the New York zoologic park. The animals were transported to the Wichita national forest which is also a game refuge and placed under the care of the Forest Service. They readily adapted themselves to their new habitat, but the area upon which they were placed was within the zone affected by the Texas fever tick and during the two or three years following their transfer only the constant care and watchfulness of the forest officers prevented the complete loss of the herd.

The animals were examined almost daily to determine whether they had become infested with Texas fever ticks and were placed in specially designed cages and sprayed with crude oil at intervals of from 15 to 30 days. Notwithstanding the extreme precautions which were adopted 3 of the animals died. Gradually, however, the enclosures in which the buffalo were confined were freed from fever ticks and there is a possibility that as the buffalo adapted themselves to their new environment they became more or less immune to the disease. No losses from Texas fever have occurred for several years, and the herd has almost quadrupled in number since it was established.

The fact that the herd has not increased more rapidly is due largely to the preponderance of male calves. This characteristic of the buffalo is so pronounced in all of the herds now in captivity that a cow is considered twice as valuable as a bull.

Speakers on Home Making Have Been Secured For the Barbecue at Versailles, Aug. 20

A BARBECUE has usually stood for politics and men only. The big Camden barbecue is to be educational and is to include the farmers' wives in the makeup of its splendid program. No effort will be spared to make the farmers' wives and daughters comfortable when they attend this huge meeting. A special rest tent will be provided for the ladies, and a physician will be in attendance.

In reading over the program which has been issued in the last week one is very much impressed with the fact that the major portion of the speakers will talk on co-operation and the marketing of crops instead of increased production of crops. For a long time the farmer has thought that increased production would solve all of his problems, but he now realizes that he must learn more about marketing his crop when made and marketing it before it is made. Mr. J. C. Caldwell, or, as his friends and neighbors call him, Jim Caldwell of Lakeland, Minn., will talk on "The Farmer and His Finances." He is a man who speaks from a wide experience, an experience that embraces the launching of a co-operative elevator, a farmers' bank, a co-operative store, a co-operative creamery and, last and by no means the least, a co-operative church. He will have something to say that will set close to the people, for he is one of the people. He is not an expert or a theorist, but a man who has accomplished things in everyday life. It might be well to mention the fact that he is just home from an extended trip abroad with the commission which has been studying foreign methods of farmers' credit and co-operation.

Professor Charles J. Brand, assistant in charge of the bureau of marketing, Washington, will tell of the work of his department in "Co-operative Farm Marketing." Mr. E. M. Tansley, who is editor of Co-operation and also secretary of the Right Relationship League, will discuss "Co-operation." The Farmers' Educational Co-operative Union of America will be represented by Mr. R. L. Barnett, who will discuss "The Farmers' Union."

Professor Cyrus W. Hopkins of the great University of Illinois has been secured to tell something of "Soil Conservation." The chief of the farmers' co-operative demonstration work, Dr. Bradford Knapp, will explain the plans and the hopes of his department in "Farm Extension Work," while Dr. Fred Muehler, in charge of the work in Kentucky, will tell something of the "Boys and Girls' Demonstration Work." Our own commissioner of agriculture, Hon. J. W. Newman, is to talk on "State Aid."

Several other speakers are being considered, besides those for the farmers' wives, so that two speakers' stands may be used at a time and accommodate any crowd which may come to the barbecue.

Every part of the Camden farm will be open for inspection on the day of the barbecue—everything from the sixty acre field that has been in alfalfa for the past fifteen years to the thoroughbreds in the stables or the bunch of Shetland ponies, with their foals by their sides. There will be no effort at a display of the stock of any character, but the people are expected to go about, inspect and ask questions as if they were attending a one day session of a great farmers' school. It is intended, after all, to be a great place of instruction and "getting together" and breaking bread together.

In Warren county in the past few weeks the farmers, their wives and sons and daughters, have been "getting together" in a series of farmers' Chautauquas. Each one has been a district affair. The barbecue at Versailles is being developed in exactly this same spirit. It is the same feeling showing in a different manner. The barbecue is not a "getting together" of a neighborhood or a county of farmers and their friends, but of the whole state. And that it may be something more than the hearing of good talks, heaves and sheep will be slaughtered and burgoo made so that it may be a picnic, a social gathering, smacking of the older days of Kentucky hospitality.

Things are happening in Kentucky. Every day things are happening in the dear old state. It seems that after her long nap she is rousing herself, and that she may never doze again night schools, Chautauquas, farmers' night schools, boys and girls' clubs and barbecues are being launched here and there.

Let each and every one that can put everything aside and come to Versailles to pledge his or her faith in a Greater Kentucky through better farming; pledge his or her faith in the old state in a steaming royal mug of burgoo.

Perfection in Motorcycle Construction: The Tourist Trophy Two-Speed Models

The Indian Motorcycle

for 1913 is being built in both the 4 H.P. single and 7 H.P. twin cylinder types. Both are fitted with the Two-Speed Gear which permits perfect regulation of speed in traffic. In touring it enables starting on any hill and riding to the top, no matter how steep the grade.

The foot starting device does away with the necessity for pedals which are omitted. A firm, downward pressure of the foot upon the starting crank starts the machine.

A powerful brake consisting of both internal expansion and external contraction of two bands on a single brake drum is operated by a foot lever on the right side of the machine and also by a grip lever on the left handle bar.

In both front and rear hubs, a knockout axle is used which enables removal of the wheels without disturbing the adjustment of the bearings. There is no detail of refined construction lacking in the Indian Tourist Trophy Two-Speed Models. In addition to these improvements, the Cradle Spring Frame and folding Footboards place these models upon the pinnacle of motorcycle perfection. OVER 10,000 OF THESE MACHINES NOW ON THE ROAD.

One of the most pleasant functions of the season was enjoyed on the evening of August 9th, when Mrs. Jno. W. Adams entertained for her charming guests, Miss Maud A. Shouse, of Joplin, Mo.; Miss May Shouse, of Joplin, Mo.; Miss Lenora Robinson Shouse, of Morganfield, Ky. The hostess is known for her hospitality and never was it more charmingly displayed than on this occasion. The receiving line included Mrs. John Adams, Miss Beulah Adams, Mrs. Jim Humphreys, Misses Maud, Lenora and May Shouse.

As the guests arrived never was a more splendid array of beautiful evening gowns displayed. Mrs. Adams was charmingly gowned in a dark marquisette over satin. Miss Maud Shouse was attired in a beautiful crepe de chene trimmed in real lace over white satin. Miss May Shouse wore a gown of white crepe de chene over white cream satin. Miss Lenora Shouse was elegantly gowned in a beautiful gown, white net over pale blue mesaline.

The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns, and the moon in all of its splendor sent its rays shimmering through the tree tops. Each guest was bountifully served with ices and

The wee hours came all too soon for the happy and congenial party.

To hear the murmurs of expressive gratitude was gratifying to the hostess. Those who were so fortunate to accept the invitation were Misses Maude Shouse, Joplin, Mo.; Miss Wilson, of Pembroke, Ky.; May Shouse, Morganfield, Ky.; Julia Henry, Lena Jones, Cira Williams, Mabel Pierce, Verna P. STATE GUARD

At Camp Perry In Charge of Col. Jouett Henry.

Col. Jouett Henry has been made commander of the members of the State Guard who qualified at the state shooting contest and are to take part in the big practice at Camp Perry, Ohio. Col. With the Builders.

The work of tearing out the inside of the Hooser building, at Main and Eighth, is progressing rapidly.

Two handsome cottages on Durrett Avenue, near Walnut street, have just been completed.

The Forbes M'f'g Co. has a full force of hands excavating for putting in the foundation of the $40,000 Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital.

Lucian H. Davis' pretty new home, on South Virginia street, is rapidly nearing completion and in about three weeks will be ready for occupancy.

The Cherokee office building, near the Elks Home on Ninth street, is going up rapidly; the brick masons are now working on the upper half of third story.

Work on the Helma tobacco warehouse is being pushed right along and the foundation is now ready for the joists. This building is to be of brick with metal roof, and will have a frontage of 160 feet.

The largest and finest residence built in the city for several years is that of R. E. Cooper, on South Main street. The contract calls for completion by the first of September, but owing to the delay of brick not being received on time, Mr. Cooper cannot move until about the first of October.

The alterations in the plans of the Carnegie Library, necessary to bring it within the fund available, will be commenced as soon as the suggested changes have been approved and returned from New York. Cost of building proper $12,500.

The addition to Bethel Female College will cost several thousand dollars and the contract will be let as soon as the architects complete the specifications.

The Government architects are as dumb as oysters as to when the postoffice building is to be built, but there is no probability of a start being made this year.

REVEALS POSITION IN WATER

New Life Preserver Shows a Light to Guide Possible Rescuers to the Drowning.

Word comes from Germany of the invention of a life preserver with novel features.

This device weighs about 5½ pounds and consists of two swimming cushions bound together by straps. The cushions lie upon the breast and back. The preserver is provided with a small lamp fed by an electric battery, which can be adjusted about one's head by means of a band on the forehead, so that by night the position of one in the water can be determined at a considerable distance.

This lamp is said to burn from three to four hours. With a reflector added light may be thrown for several hundred yards.

The preserver may, it is further claimed, be adjusted in five seconds, the lamp-aiding illumination as soon as the buckle is fastened.—Harper's Weekly.

SAYS AEROPLANING IS LIKE GAME OF POKER

According to Miss Matilde Moisant, the aviator accidents in the air do not hunt one's courage or destroy the desire to fly. And Miss Moisant ought to know because she has experienced most every kind of mishap known to the game. She has been lost in cloud banks, plinked under wreckage and rescued from a burning aeroplane, and yet she says she would fly again.

Miss Moisant had just returned from San Salvador, where she went after retreating from the exhibition field. It was not until she had been the victim of four accidents and in each instance had narrowly escaped death that she was persuaded to give up flying.

And now she says she only quit because she had made nervous wrecks of members of her family and was compelled to make a promise to stay on the ground.

Miss Moisant, it will be remembered, took up flying soon after the death of her brother, John B. Moisant, who lost his life in an aeroplane fall. "I never could watch my brother fly without experiencing great fear," she said, "but with myself it is different. After I leave the ground I enjoy every minute without a thought of anything that might happen."

"If I felt the least afraid I certainly would not fly. Anyone who has not confidence in himself and his machine should never fly. I think many accidents are the result of fear, which often causes an aviator to lose his head. However, I think there are unavoidable accidents, no matter how cautious the aviator may be."

As an illustration Miss Moisant cited the case of Miss Quimby, whom she regarded as one of the most careful of women fliers.

"Miss Quimby never took chances," said Miss Moisant, "and frequently chided me for my recklessness. And here I have come out of accident after accident while Miss Quimby had to lose her life in her very first mishap!"

"It is something like a game of poker after all and each one is confident that he will win the next time. I can hardly realize what has happened to Miss Quimby and I wish some one would tell me it isn't true. Miss Quimby and I learned to fly at the same school and our exhibition flights were made together. No accident outside of that to my brother has made me so sad." Miss Moisant was considered very cautious.

PATRICIA REFUSES TO MARRY A FOREIGNER

The report that Princess Patricia of Connaught is betrothed to the hereditary Grand Duke Adolph of Mecklenburg and Strelitz is officially denied. There is said to be no foundation for it whatever.

That the handsome English princess should remain so long unmarried (the ungallant Burke's peerage says she was twenty-seven on March 17 last) seems strange, but gossips in court circles declare that she positively refuses to marry a foreigner.

Grand Duke Adolph (he is thirty-one) is visiting King George at Windsor Castle, and his friends say he is trying to find out who is the facetious person in Berlin attempting to effect a matrimonial alliance through the newspapers between himself and Princess Patricia. The duke and the princess are well acquainted, but they never got along together, and the princess would be impossible as the future reigning consort in the stiff, provincial German court at Neu-Strelitz. Her unconventionality and independence would shock the Mecklenburg-Strelitz dowagers into fits of apoplexy.

The duke has always been a special protegee of Queen Mary's. The queen took Princess Mary to Neu-Strelitz last year for a family visit, and the prince of Wales is expected there in the near future, while the queen is also going again with Princess Mary in the autumn.

The queen goes ostensibly to see her aunt, the dowager grand duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. She is one of the most remarkable old women alive. She will be ninety-one July 19, and is still hale and hearty, her intelligence unimpaired. She is a granddaughter of George III. of England and a sister of Queen Mary's mother. She is credited with having arranged the match between Emperor William's daughter and Prince Ernest of Cumberland, and is believed to be really at the bottom of the present matrimonial plan for Duke Adolph and Princess Mary.

But Patricia remains single.

SENATOR PENROSE LAUDS HOME-MAKING ART

Declaring that the "trouble of today is that we are getting away too far from the ideas of our forefathers," Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania made a plea for "home-making as a profession" at the commencement exercises of the National School of Domestic Sciences, held at the Playhouse in Washington a few days ago. He declared that the art of home-making is not only the most honored of all professions, but is indeed the corner stone upon which rests the welfare of the nation.

"There is too much ordering of groceries and household goods over the telephone nowadays," said Senator Penrose. "The old system of doing your own marketing at the market should come into vogue again. Telephone orders are sixty per cent. higher than when you do your own shopping, and you don't get what you want."

Senator Mark L. Myers of Montana, in presenting the diplomas, said: "I am glad, in this day of the new thought and the new woman, to see some of them giving their attention to the home and such things in which our mothers and grandmothers were interested."

Representative Frank B. Willis of Ohio also spoke, as did Dr. Quay Kueset of the University of Pennsylvania, Rev. Charles Wood and Rev. James T. Marshall led the devotional exercises. Mrs. Frances K. Lawson sang. Several musical selections were given by a section of the United States Marine band.

Ups and Downs.

Governor Johnson of California at a dinner in Sacramento philosophized about a man of middle age who, having attained great success after years of struggle, failed through rash speculations, and fell back into obscurity again.

Governor Johnson summed up this man's fall in an epigram.

"How many of us," said he, "reach the topmost pinnacle of success only to be attacked with hopeless vertigo."

BOAZ W. LONG CHOSEN AS CHIEF OF BUREAU

In the appointment of Boaz W. Long to be chief of the bureau of Latin American affairs, Secretary of State Bryan has selected a man from commercial life whose acquaintance with Latin America, as he states it, consists of knowledge acquired in old Mexico in the course of travels during three months in the year during the past nine years. Heretofore the incumbent of the post has been a man versed in diplomatic affairs, and with considerable experience, and with one exception—of ministerial rank.

Mr. Long is the son of Eliza V. Long, chief justice of the territory of New Mexico during Cleveland's administration. He is a native of Indiana, and about thirty years of age. His home is at Las Vegas, N. M. He comes to the department of state heavily indorsed.

Mr. Long's acquaintance with old Mexico has been obtained in the pursuit of his business interests as an advertising man. He has little acquaintance with official Mexico, he states, although his business brought him into contact with many state governors and other state officials. He believes he knows the Mexican people. The failure of his prospects in old Mexico, incident to conditions of unrest and rebellion, forced him to seek elsewhere a field of endeavor. The state department affords him opportunity.

Rough Life.

"Can you build me a piano and leave the bark on the wood?" "I guess so," opined the piano man. "I want it for my hunting lodge. We rough it up there, you know."

Natural Result.

"Jack Jingles has a swelled head. 'And what about? I would like to know?'" "Somebody gave it a good punching last night."

INTERNAL EVIDENCE.

At a certain college it was the custom to have the students write the following pledge at the bottom of their examination papers:

"I hereby certify on my honor that I have neither given nor received aid

during this examination."

Soon after handing in his paper a young fellow hurriedly entered the class room and said: "Professor, I forgot to put the pledge on my paper."

"Altogether unnecessary," replied the teacher. "I have just finished looking over your paper and I feel sure you neither gave nor received aid."—Lippincott's.

Extremes Meet.

A hungry young cyclist had put up for the night at a wayside inn and found the supper rather scanty, the most substantial part of it being a single sausage roll.

"Is that the best you can do in the way of sausage rolls?" he asked.

"Why," said the host, "isn't it good?"

"Oh, it's good enough perhaps; but the ends of it don't suit me."

"The ends. What's the matter with them?"

"Too near together," said the hungry youth, and the innkeeper took the hint.

WELL FIXED, INDEED.

"Is young Wise well fixed?"

"Yes; he's stuck on a girl worth a

Hard to Interest.

"My husband doesn't care for sightseeing."

"Then nothing interested him on your trip?"

"Only the spot where Washington threw a dollar across the Potomac.

He spent several hours looking for the while, but even that ended in disappointment at last."

The Messenger Boy.

"Where are you going, senator?"

You seem busy."

"I am busy. Got to take this package of soil over to the agricultural department to be assayed, then I must send some seeds to one of my constituents, and find some summer boarders for a man who says he voted for me last fall."

Distracting the Mind.

"Why do you suppose it is that a joy ride is considered a sure cure for sorrowful reflections?"

"Chiefly, I imagine, because it is impossible for a person to mope and run an automobile 40 or 50 miles an hour

at the same time."

Kansas Woman Helpless.

THE ITALIAN TREATMENT.

The Italians resort to a very simple method when they wish to obliterate the injurious effects of salt air and sunshine after a visit to their villas,

the shore of the Adriatic, the Tyrrhenian sea or the lakes. They bathe the face with the white of an egg, well beaten, let it dry on the skin and rinse it off in soft water after fifteen minutes. The treatment is repeated three or four times, and always at night just before retiring.

Hopkinsville won from Owensboro Monday and Tuesday, losing only the game played at Owensboro Sunday. This leaves the Moguls still 26 points behind Clarksville and 69 behind Paducah.

Henderson, one of the weaker teams, is now here for three games. These will be concluded today and Friday. Clarksville is playing Owensboro and Paducah Harrisburg.

Hopkinsville 4, Owensboro 2.
Paducah 6, Vincennes 3.
Clarksville 5, Henderson 7.

Tuesday.

Paducah 12, Vincennes 2.

Hopkinsville 9, Owensboro 4.
Clarksville-Henderson—Tie in 10th inning; called on account of rain.

J. G. Woody, a brother of the third baseman, arrived this week and is playing left field. In Tuesday's game he got a hit, a walk and fielded well, making one feature catch.

A scoreless game of 20 innings was played at Jersey City Tuesday between Jersey City and Toronto Internationals.

Lajoie, of Cleveland, has been 17 years in big league ball.

Street Worker.

A young man giving the name of Roberts, claiming to be from Shelbyville, Ky., was stopped yesterday from soliciting contributions without a permit. He said he was an independent worker against intemperance and catholicism. As he had no credentials, a soliciting permit was refused him and he became quite indignant and questioned the right of the city to regulate his business. He submitted with very poor grace.

Bethel More Attractive.

The alterations in Bethel Female College are nearing completion and the whole interior will have a much improved appearance.

NEW IDEA

The Use of Arsenate of Lead
Against Tobacco Hook
Worms.

Since the time has about arrived for the application of insecticides to tobacco, it is thought that a few words in regard to the use of the arsenate of lead will not be out of place. Arsenate of lead is recommended for use upon tobacco for two reasons, first, it can be used upon tobacco in sufficient dosages to kill all but the largest worms without danger of burning the tobacco, second, it is not so easily washed off as is Paris green. Arsenate of lead is not quite so quick in killing the worms as is Paris green, yet it is quick enough to be perfectly satisfactory. Large tobacco has been cleaned up of worms upon several occasions in two or three days by an application of five pounds of arsenate of lead per acre.

Those who are planning to use arsenate of lead upon tobacco this year should follow out the recommendations here given: namely, on tobacco that is in top apply not less than four and one-half pounds per acre, and if a considerable number of half-grown worms are present, apply not less than five pounds per acre. Tobacco that is lapping and that is full grown should have an application of five pounds per acre. A thoroughly even application is absolutely necessary to insure success, and to secure an even application apply the dust when there is no breeze, or at least when there is very little breeze. No dust poison will give perfect satisfaction if applied when there is anything stronger than a very light breeze blowing.

In obtaining the arsenate of lead the primary consideration is to get a brand that will kill the worms. There are many brands of perfectly good arsenates of lead that will not kill tobacco worms satisfactorily. Such are good for fruit tree spraying but it does not follow that they will kill tobacco worms. The grades of arsenate of lead that should be demanded for use upon tobacco are only those grades that the manufacturers will guarantee to contain at least 30 per cent. of arsenic in combination with lead, (i. e. at least 30 per cent. of arsenic oxide) and no more than one per cent. is free, or water-soluble arsenic. In short, a special grade of lead is required for use against tobacco horn worms. The writer will be pleased to recommend the proper grades upon request. The cost of the arsenate of lead will be about 20 cents to 24 cents per pound.

In order to dust the arsenate of lead upon tobacco evenly it has been found that it is necessary to mix it with an equal bulk of dry wood ashes. Other carriers, like lime and land plaster, have been tried but did not give satisfaction. Air-slacked lime balls up too much when mixed with lead, and land plaster is too heavy for even the fan power of the largest guns now on the market. The mixture of arsenate of lead can be applied very satisfactorily if a dust gun is used that has a fan diameter of at least 8 inches. The dust guns on general sale have a fan diameter of only about 6 inches.

A. C. MORGAN,
Entomological Assistant,
U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Clarksville, Tenn., August 6, 1913.

CURRENT WIT and HUMOR

Looney Season Begins.
"Golf? Why, man, you're crazier than a loon. The idea of a fellow on a hot day like this going out and clubbing around a little white pill in the sun."

"What are you going to do?"
"Who, me? I'm going to get a row boat and pull out over the lake and try to get some fish."

"Fish? The last fish was caught out of that lake three years ago."
"Well, I know that. Suppose I don't get any fish, I've had a tip-top boat ride, haven't I?"

A Blighted Career.
"Didn't the beautiful Miss Verdigris fit herself by a thorough medical course for the treatment of nervous and bronchial ailments?"

"Yes, and she opened a perfectly elegant office in a most desirable location, but she gave up her practice inside of six weeks."

"What was the trouble?"
"Nine-tenths of the people who came to consult her were men and every one of them appeared to be suffering from palpitation of the heart."

Famous Beauty Chorus.
"What's drawing the crowd?" asked the visitor across the Styx. "Oh, I see. Musical comedy billed, with Mozart leading the orchestra. That is quite an attraction."
"It's the sextet that draws 'em," interposed a bystander. "Think of it! Helen of Troy, Sappho, Cleopatra, Pompadour, Duharry and Nell Gwyn all on one stage."

WORRY REQUIRED.

"You say you were going to join our 'Don't Worry' Club."
"I meant to. But I can't do it without feeling that I am disloyal to our home hall team."

Back-Yard Art.
He tanked up, did our whitewash man; He used a reckless flat, And did a job that looked worse than A post-impressionist.

Caution.
"Shall I submit a copy of this interview to you after I have transcribed it?" asked the busy reporter.
"Well," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, thoughtfully, "if you want to make sure of my not contradicting it maybe you had better submit copies of it to the directors with whom I am associated in various interests."

Professionally Considered.
"The declaration of independence is a wonderful document," said the patriotic citizen.
"Yes," replied the legal expert. "It's one of the ablest documents I ever saw. And the most remarkable thing is that, with all the ability it represents, nobody appears to have received a cent for drawing it up."

Real Thing.
"I understand that Mr. Grahwell started in life by borrowing $50. You must admire a man with courage like that," said Mr. Growcher's neighbor as they walked downtown.
"No, I don't," replied Mr. Growcher. "The man I admire is the one who had the courage to lend him the fifty."

His Cautious Attitude.
"Blimly is about the sorriest fellow I ever saw."
"Oh, don't be too hard on Blimly. Early in life somebody told him never to start anything he couldn't finish and ever since then, for fear he might not be able to finish it, Blimly has never started anything."

Vanquished.
"How is your garden, Gadspar?"
"Oh, I threw up the sponge and quit."
"Aren't you mixing metaphors?"
"No. I had a continuous fight with my neighbors over chickens, dogs and children."
